

The Fair Use rights of Americans should not be held hostage to large corporations like Viacom. The only thing adding copy protection schemes will do is prevent law abiding citizens from making Fair Use copies of broadcast materials. Professional pirates will continue to illegally distribute material, regardless of your decision. Crippling consumer goods will only hurt the average law-abiding consumer.